

Prove 5 – Personal Project

Yonghwan Lee

My style:

- I am a quiet person normally, but I speak a lot when I do something that I love.
- My personality: INFP-T
- I am a good follower and take responsibility.
- I am a Challenger.
I like to challenge myself and try things that I've never done before, even if I fail. This gives me experience and helps me to improve myself.

How to approach me:

Feel free to come and talk to me. I prefer that someone comes to me. I am a little bit shy, so it is hard to get new friends. If you need help or have something for me, I can help you anytime.

My personal values:

Consideration is the most important value for me.
People face the consideration anytime when people meet others.
Canceling an appointment without any message, annoying me with a bad attitude, and using swear words are not considerate of me.
Those are the examples. I am not a picky person. If you are not rude, I can think that you are considerate of me.

How to communicate with me:

Just talk to me and share your ideas.
I like listening to others. If you want to communicate with me as a co-worker, you should say what you really need and want and why.

How to make decisions:

I prefer to make a decision by comparing with others.
Sometimes, I do not have confidence in whether my decision is correct or not.
However, by comparing my decision and others' decision, I can feel better and get more confidence.

How to help me:

I am a very quiet person, so I sometimes cannot request help from others. If you ask "do you need help?" to me, I can share my needs or what I would like help with.

What will you not tolerate in others:

I think that I am a positive person. However, I hate the rude person with swear words.